

Turning Years Old

TRANSITIONING
From Early Start
Into the Preschool Years

A Guide for Families in Santa Barbara County

Word From Parents...

As our child turns three years old and graduates from the Early Start Program, we experience another milestone to celebrate. At this time we review the progress our child has made and look ahead to changes and new opportunities for our child, which may include receiving services in preschool, new programs, or a change in services. It may be determined that some or all specialized services that our child has been receiving through the Early Start Program are no longer needed. While this is exciting, we may also feel somewhat anxious about the changes that the process of transition to new services brings. During transition, it helps to remember that change offers new ways for us to learn and grow as individuals and as a family.

We may not be the first parents who have stated in exasperation, “Just when we know who’s who and our child is doing so well, it’s time to move onto another program!” As families leaving Early Start, we might find that we are leaving a place of comfort where we established relationships with all the people on our child’s team and we have learned to navigate the services, jargon, and the scheduling issues. Whether we feel as though we are finally just getting settled or perhaps still as if we are in a daze, a change in services can feel overwhelming. Regardless of what stage we are in, as parents, we have begun to build upon our own resources and networks of support and will continue to do so. It helps to be prepared before the transition begins.

Transition is the process of change; a process or period in which something undergoes a change and passes from one state, stage, form, or activity to another.

This guide is intended to help you prepare for your child’s transition into the preschool years at age three by providing you with tools and supporting information. It was developed by early intervention specialists, preschool teachers, and parents who have experienced the graduation from Early Start. Many parents will point out that this transition is usually much more difficult for the parents than it is for the child! Congratulations on this new milestone in your family’s life!

Tips From Parents

 You are the expert on your child. You are also a key member of your child's team. Your child's team can consist of anyone you want to have input on your child's growth and development. This includes your child's educators, care providers, health providers and, if eligible for regional center services, a service coordinator from Tri-Counties Regional Center.

 Create a team for your child. You are the team leader and the educators, therapists, and other service providers are the other team members. Encourage open and frequent communication and cooperation amongst team members. Remember that you and your child's team can all learn together from each other. Make sure that everyone on your team is acquainted with one another.

 Ask questions. There is never a "dumb" question. To be prepared and informed, you must gather information and the only way to get answers to things you don't know is by asking questions. You are building your own bank of expertise by gathering information, learning from others, and utilizing resources. Use this information and add it to the knowledge you and other family members and friends share.

 Stay organized. Set up a simple filing system, even a binder, box or your Baby Data Book will work. Some things to keep include: medical records, Individualized Education Program plans (IEP), Individualized Family Service Plans (IFSP), regional center documents, evaluations, research and information on your child's condition and business cards or other contact information for individuals working with you and your child.

 Take a friend to meetings. When it comes to the care and advocacy of your child, it's always good to have "another set of ears" when you go to meetings or important doctor's appointments. A spouse, family member or friend can be a valuable source of help.

 Remember, you are not alone. There are many other parents who have children with special needs in your community who are willing to share their experience and expertise. Network with them through support groups, resource centers and other community resources. Gather information from them and then do what feels right for you.

Don't re-invent the wheel. You are not the first parent to have a child graduate from the Early Start Program. Talk with others, visit your resource center, and learn how others have developed successful plans for their preschool age children.

Take care of yourself. Accept this process as part of your life and don't let it overwhelm you. Keep life in balance. Good health requires that you take some time for yourself, your partner, friends and family.

Turning : What an Exciting Time!

Early Start services provide early intervention for infants and toddlers birth to age 3. Until now, your child has been enrolled in the Early Start Program. Your child will soon be turning three years old and that means he or she will be graduating from the Early Start Program and transitioning to another program or combination of services. This guide has been given to you to help you prepare for and participate in this important transition from Early Start services to services provided to preschool age children in your community.

At Age 2

When your child turns two, it is an ideal time to begin thinking about what programs or services you would like your child to participate in after his or her third birthday. You may want to talk with your child's teacher(s) or early intervention service providers and your Tri-Counties Regional Center (TCRC) Early Start service coordinator about:

-  Services for preschool age children in your community
-  Preschool alternatives, eligibility and availability
-  How to choose quality early childhood care and education programs for your child
-  Preschool services for children with special needs
-  Eligibility criteria for programs you may be interested in learning more about

- ✂ Visiting preschools in your area
- ✂ How to contact other parents who have gone through the Early Start transition process
- ✂ How to contact your local family resource center for information, resources, and referral
- ✂ The transition process and timeline you and your child's team will follow before and after your child turns three years old
- ✂ The types of services you think your child may or may not need after turning three years old

By Age 2 and a Half

When your child is 2 ½ (30 months of age), an Individualized Family Service Plan (IFSP) meeting will be held to discuss the transition from Early Start Services. This is also called a "30 month Transition IFSP meeting". If it is anticipated that your child will be receiving specialized preschool services, a teacher from the Santa Barbara County Education Office (SBCEO) Preschool Programs may be asked to attend this meeting to discuss preschool program options. Other meeting participants may include your child's current early intervention specialists, your Tri-Counties Regional Center (TCRC) Early Start service coordinator and anyone else you wish to attend. This is a good time for you to learn more about preschool options in the community as well as special education support services your child may be eligible to receive. You may also learn during this meeting what types of further evaluations and assessments will be needed to determine eligibility for services at age three and when they will need to be conducted. Make sure you are present for and involved in all assessments for your child.

Almost 3

Within the month before your child's third birthday a final Individualized Family Service Plan (IFSP) meeting will be held. At this time one of the following will be determined:

- a) Your child no longer needs specialized services based on the assessments that were performed, and the IFSP will be closed; or
- b) Your child will benefit from special education supports during the preschool years. If you and your team proceed with this determination, an Individualized Education Plan (IEP) will be developed by your child's third birthday. If your child is eligible for services from Tri-Counties Regional Center after the age of three, an Individual Program Plan (IPP) will also be developed at this time. Please see pages 6, 8, and 12 for more information regarding the Individualized Education Plan (IEP) and Individualized Program Plan (IPP).

Preschool Services

Your child's early intervention specialist and your TCRC Early Start Service Coordinator will help you learn about the preschool services that are available in your community. You may already be aware of some public or private programs that will meet your child's needs. This may include Head Start, State Preschools, and private preschool programs that may include child care options as part of their services. These programs are open to all children, but may have enrollment fees, financial or other eligibility criteria.

Individualized Education Program Plan

If you and your child's team determine that your child is in need of special education support services after his or her third birthday, an Individualized Education Program Plan (IEP) will be developed by the child's third birthday. You and your child's team will develop the IEP together. The IEP will describe:

- ⚡ Your child's current strengths and abilities
- ⚡ The developmental goals you would like your child to achieve during the following year
- ⚡ The specialized support services your child will receive from the school to help him or her meet these goals
- ⚡ The locations and frequencies of services to be provided

The IEP will be reviewed at an annual meeting, but if you have questions, concerns, or wish to make changes to the IEP, you can ask for an IEP meeting to be held at any time. Remember that the IEP is a written agreement between you and all the other members of your child's planning team, so it is important to ask questions, be involved, and fully understand the contents of your child's IEP.

Specialized Preschool Supports

The Santa Barbara County Education Office (SBCEO) provides special education support services to children who meet the eligibility criteria. The support provided is always based upon your child's unique and special needs.

There are three levels of support services:

- ✈️ Preschool support provided to children who need special education support for help in speech and language development or one or two other areas where there is mild delay.
- ✈️ Preschool support for children who need help in several developmental areas.
- ✈️ Preschool support services in an intensive, individualized program called LEAP (Learning Enrichment Autism Program) is provided to children with a diagnosis on the autism spectrum.

How these services are provided, including frequency, hours per week, and location is determined by you and your child's team and described in the written Individualized Education Plan (IEP). Most services can be provided in a preschool setting, a child care environment, or at home. The level of services your child needs may determine where the services are best provided. Sometimes transportation to services may be provided. These are some of the things you will want to discuss before your child's third birthday and throughout the transition process so that you are prepared to make final decisions at the time of your child's IEP meeting.

Tri-Counties Regional Center and Your Child's INDIVIDUALIZED PROGRAM PLAN

Before your child's third birthday, your Tri-Counties Regional Center (TCRC) Early Start Service Coordinator will begin the process of determining whether or not your child will be eligible to receive TCRC services after he or she turns three. Many children who graduate from Early Start services are no longer eligible for regional center services.

Some parents ask why a change in services must take place at age three. The Early Start Program provides early intervention services to help children birth to age three that may have a developmental delay or disability. Many times, early intervention helps the child develop to a level where there is no longer a delay or a need for further intervention. Other times, a child may continue to have a mild delay in one or two different areas and may continue to need special education support for academic purposes. Under these circumstances, the child does not require the types of lifelong services provided by regional centers. Children who have a diagnosis of developmental disability or autism may continue to be eligible for regional center services at age of three. Because Early Start services end at age three, this transition period is an important time to assess the child's needs and determine, as best you can at this time, what his or her future needs may be and how to access appropriate services accordingly.

With your permission, a medical and/or psychological evaluation may be given to your child to help determine eligibility. You may also want to ask about other available assessments to re-evaluate your child's progress following the early intervention he or she has received thus far, or to evaluate additional special needs. Let your pediatrician or primary care providers know about this process.

If your child will continue to be served by TCRC after his or her third birthday, your Early Start Service Coordinator will meet with you to develop an Individualized Program Plan or "IPP". This plan is similar to the Individualized Education Program plan (IEP) because it will describe what your child is able to do now, what you want your child to do in the future, and what services will be provided to help your child meet these goals. The Individualized Program Plan or "IPP" focuses on your child's goals outside of school and the Individualized Education Program plan (IEP) focuses upon your child's academic or educational goals while in school. Your Early Start Service Coordinator will help you to discuss goals when you work together to develop your child's IPP.

Additional Information

Questions & Answers

Q: What is transition?

A: Transition is change or movement from one program or service to another. If your child is receiving Early Start services and is turning 3 years old, he or she is ready to transition to another program or services.

Q: When does this transition process begin?

A: The transition process begins as close as possible to your child's second birthday.

-  Your child's service coordinator will begin to discuss transition when your child is 2 years old. At this time you will also want to be thinking about what programs or services you would like your child to participate in after he or she turns 3.
-  When your child is 2 ½ (30 months) a Transition IFSP meeting will be held. The purpose of this meeting is for you and the other team members to determine which program will be best for your child and family, after looking at all the possibilities.
-  A final IFSP meeting will be held within a month of your child's 3rd birthday.

Q: Why must my child transition on his or her 3rd birthday?

A: After age 36 months, your child is no longer eligible for Early Start according to federal law – the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), Part C. However, your child may be eligible for services under IDEA, Part B, or for other preschool services in your community.

Q: What are some of the questions I may be asking at the transition meetings?

A: Some of the frequently asked questions you may want to ask are listed below:

-  What are the community-based or specialized preschool options for children?
-  What is the difference between an Individualized Family Service Plan (IFSP) and the Individualized Education Plan (IEP)?
-  Who will be my child's service coordinator?

- ⚡ Who are the agencies who will be involved in my child's program?
- ⚡ How many children and teachers will be in my child's program?
- ⚡ How long is the school day or class and what is the daily routine of the program?
- ⚡ Will my child participate with other children who do not have a disability?
- ⚡ Will I be responsible for transporting my child to and from the program?
- ⚡ What if I do not want my child to participate in a preschool program?

Q: What choices do I have for my child after his or her 3rd birthday?

A: There may be many settings in your community that will meet your child's needs, such as:

- ⚡ Public and private preschools/child care centers, or school readiness programs
- ⚡ Family child care homes
- ⚡ School pre-kindergarten programs
- ⚡ Other community-based public or private programs

acronyms and Terms Used in This Guide

Early Start In California Infants and toddlers from birth to 36 months may be eligible for early intervention services provided through the Early Start Program if, through documented evaluation and assessment, they meet one of the criteria listed below:

- have a developmental delay in either cognitive, communication, social or emotional, adaptive, or physical and motor development including vision and hearing; or
- have established risk conditions of known etiology, with a high probability of resulting in delayed development; or
- are at high risk of having a substantial developmental disability due to a combination of risk factors.

IEP Individualized Education Program

Each public school child who receives special education and related services must have an Individualized Education Program (IEP). Each IEP must be designed for one student and must be a truly individualized document. The IEP creates an opportunity for teachers, parents, school administrators, related services personnel, students, and others the family may wish to participate, including care providers, friends, and other family members, to work together to improve educational results for children with disabilities. The IEP is the cornerstone of a quality education for each child with a disability. The Individualized Education Plan is the written document describing the individualized education program. The IEP meeting is held annually, or when a change in services is desired.

IFSP Individualized Family Service Plan

A plan written to document the delivery of community-based, specialized, interagency services to families with infants or toddlers birth to age three with developmental disabilities or who may be at risk of developmental delay. The IFSP identifies the Early Start services a child receives. It includes the priorities of the family, family resources, and future goals. It is reviewed every six months.

IPPIndividualized Program Plan

A child over the age of 3 who will receive services from Tri-Counties Regional Center will have an Individualized Program Plan (IPP). This is developed by parents, the child, the service coordinator and any others the family consents to participate in the planning process. The IPP describes what the child is able to do at present, goals for the future, and the services needed to help the child achieve these goals. The IPP focuses upon goals outside of school and the IEP focuses on academic goals worked on in the school setting. Having a good, functioning IEP is one part of your child's overall IPP.

LEAPLearning Enrichment Autism Program

The Learning Enrichment Autism Program (LEAP) is provided by Santa Barbara County Education Office and is an intensive, individualized program for preschool aged children diagnosed on the autism spectrum. Children who are 3-5 with a diagnosis on the AS are eligible for this program. Placement is determined by the child's need as determined by the IEP team. LEAP provides expanded hours as well as alternate placements in inclusion settings. There is a range of instructional strategies used based on careful, ongoing analysis of each child's learning style and needs.

SBCEOSanta Barbara County Education Office

The Santa Barbara County Education Office (SBCEO) is an intermediate agency between the California State Department of Education and the 23 school districts and two community colleges located within the county's boundaries. It is our mission to provide service and leadership to those districts in the areas of students, teachers, and finance. SBCEO provides special education services to eligible preschool age children in Santa Barbara County.

SELPASpecial Education Local Plan Area

SELPA (pronounced sell-puh) stands for Special Education Local Plan Area. SELPAs are made up of school districts and county offices of education within particular geographic areas. The Santa Barbara County SELPA is made up of all school districts in Santa Barbara County and includes the Santa Barbara County Education Office (SBCEO). These coordinated educational entities have joined together to provide a full range of services to students with special needs.

TCRC Tri-Counties Regional Center

The State of California contracts with Tri-Counties Regional Center (TCRC) to provide supports and services for children and adults with developmental disabilities living in San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and Ventura Counties. These services cover the life span of individuals, from early assessment and intervention for infants and young children, school-age children, transition-age young adults' recreational, employment and residential needs to the residential, service and medical needs of adults and seniors.
